

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

FEBRUARY 28, 1891.—Ordered to be printed.

Mr. FAULKNER, from the Committee on Pensions, submitted the following

REPORT:

[To accompany H. R. 13460.]

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 13460) for the relief of George Harlan, have examined the same and report:

Your committee adopt the report submitted by the Committee on Pensions of the House of Representatives and recommend the passage of the act.

The House report is as follows:

The claimant was a private in Capt. Samuel Farris's company, Georgia Militia, from May 27 to June 27, 1836, in the Creek Indian war "to repel hostilities." He again was enlisted in the same organization from July 4, 1836, and served up to October 1, 1836, and was paid for 3 months and 1 day's service, with the remark, "Appointed assistant surgeon 3d August, 1836." He applied for pension in July, 1885, for injury to right hip, which he claimed to have incurred in the Indian war, but the Pension Bureau rejected the claim, because the claimant could not produce evidence to establish it.

The claimant is 74 years of age and in needy circumstances, and would be a beneficiary under the service-pension bill for the survivors of the Indian wars favorably reported by this committee.

Your committee recommend the passage of the bill.
